<sup>1</sup> A Full-Time, First-Time (FTFT), associate degree-seeking student, as defined by IPEDS, is an undergraduate student who has no prior postsecondary experience and is attending any institution for the first time at the undergraduate level. The student must be enrolled in 12 or more semester/quarter credits per term and must be formally admitted to and seeking an associate degree. This includes students who began college in the summer term immediately prior to the fall term, as well as those who entered with advanced standing through college credits earned during high school. However, students with any other prior college experience are not considered first-time students.
